

Absolutely not! WebPublisher was designed to make creating a website as easy as using a word processor. You can add text, images and other content to your site easily without any programming skills.